DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Seaman et al. in view of Whitcomb.

Seaman et al. shows all of the limitations of the claims except for specifying that a vehicle purchase would be a special event to memorialize.

Seaman et al. shows a system and method for creating a multimedia presentation. In the background, Seaman et al. teaches the use of digital video and digital audio to memorialize special events. (Especially, page 1, paragraph [0008], the claimed basic operation steps for digital video and audio are inherent, see cited Wilson et al. for evidence)

Whitcomb teaches, page 2, paragraph [0015], a method of memorializing the purchase of an automobile with a replica. The reason to memorialize the purchase of an automobile is to profit from nostalgia (see page 1, paragraph [0003]).

Based on the teaching of Whitcomb, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to modify the system of Seaman et al. to incorporate the purchase of an automobile as a special event in order to profit from nostalgia.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 6/20/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant asserts that the Seaman et al. reference is not relevant. The examiner does not concur. The reference is drawn to the creation of a multimedia presentation. Applicant invention creates a multimedia presentation.

Applicant asserts the purpose of the invention. This is not relevant. Just because the examiner has presented a different reason for performing the same process, does not make the rejection or the reference invalid.

Applicant asserts that there is no suggestion to combine the references. The examiner does not concur. Both references solve the same problem of memorializing events and Whitcomb teaches that there is profit to be made from nostalgia.

Applicant argues, "recording a transaction, including the legally-required disclosures and consumer purchasing decisions, ..." is a different purpose. Purpose is not relevant in a claim. In addition, the phrase "including the legally-required disclosures and consumer purchasing decisions" as a part of the transaction does not exist in the claim language.

The rejection is maintained.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
